May 16, 1957

Youth prepares for the challenge of life by a broad training and development with special stress on the intellectual. A machine operating at maximum capacity is efficient as is the schooner under full sail. Man, an intellectual being, can function efficiently only when all his facilities are developed to capacity.

You have reached a decisive point in life, and one that will determine the course of your future. How ready are you to assume the responsibilities of citizenship in this country which is the focal point of a highly competitive world? Your own appraisal should best determine your plans for future study and improvement. So strive in your quest for knowledge that you never become self-satisfied.

Be efficient citizens, and may you always enjoy real happiness!

John J. Collins

Your tenure as students at Wilmington High School has come to an end. You have received an education which should provide the tools for each of you to carve your individual lives. Some of you are, by your own will, determination, and application, better equipped than others. Yet all of you, regardless of course selection, interest and vocation, have been developing to a greater or lesser degree one fundamental trait, which is inescapable throughout the remainder of time. This trait is the ability to get along with others.

There are no grades on your reports for this trait. It is one of the many intangibles that make up that great over-all personality. Yet as you have dealt with people in the past, and will so continue through the future, you will find this underlying phase of education of vital importance in many life situations that you will encounter. Your joys and sorrows, successes and failures, happiness and disappointments, all have, and will continue to work on your personality so that you as an individual will be one whom everyone loves, honors, respects and is truly gratified to know and call friend, or you will find yourself extremely limited or alone. The decision as to what type you will be is yours.

Congratulations to you upon the successful completion of your high school education and graduation. May this be the beginning of brighter days, as you continue your trek down life's path. May your hopes, dreams, ambitions, and plans be realized to their fullest.

BERNARD P. McMAHON
Principal

CONGRATULATIONS AND BEST WISHES TO THE CLASS OF 1957

Your formal education is now completed. Some of you will continue your education; others of you will set out to carve your careers.

I would like to leave this thought with you! Goodness and greatness come mostly to those who have the advantage of intelligent care in childhood, and ennobling teaching and environment in the teens, to those who have the best types of companions in their youth.

In youth, the most potent influence for good or evil is exercised by companionship. Youth, rightly employed in acquiring and practicing desirable knowledge, and kept in safe association, has to utilize well the time available to it in order to be furnished with the armor to fight the battle of life.

Material greatness is not everything. The difference between material and moral greatness lies in this: in the material world, greatness cannot be shared with others without diminishing one's own; but, in moral life, greatness not only can be shared with others equally, but, when so shared, makes the giver no loser, but rather greater and happier still.

May each and everyone of you realize your ambition in life.

Sports

Football

The team, under the direction of new head coach Fred Belissimo and assistant coaches Charles Keady and John Ritchie, started practice early in September, with high hopes for a good season.

Led by Captains Bill Rosa and Sam Cavallaro, the boys played several good ball games, although they were unable to produce a victory. In the annual Wilmington-Tewksbury game the work of the team as a well-constructed unit was outstanding.

Cheerleaders

It took the leadership of Roz Howell and Margie Beddoes to keep the cheerleading squad as efficient, cooperative, and high-spirited as it was this year. The girls lively and whole-hearted efforts during both the football and basketball seasons were unmatched save by the spirits of the playing teams themselves.

Field Hockey

The sports activities during '56 and '57 have found many new, eager, and spirited girls taking part in the program.

In the fall, the Field Hockey Team, led by Captain Judy Rosselli, had a most successful season. A squad of twenty-five members won five games and tied one.

On Saturday, November 3, 1956, members of the team attended the annual High School Field Hockey Playday, sponsored by the Boston Field Hockey Association, at Concord, Mass.

The members of the team are Judy Rosselli, Mag Orne, Virginia Dawson, Gwen Fisher, Carol McKay, Doreen Sonier, Janice Spanks, Gertrude Cushing, Betsy Barry, Judith Iverson, Ruth Sullivan, Ann Sullivan, Marion Dawson, Regina Klements, Bonnie Forrest, Joan Currier, and Dawn Iverson.

Hockey

The Hockey Team, under the direction of Coach James Kelly and the leadership of Co-Captains James Reid and Russell Gould, had a very successful season.

Playing games against North Reading, Keith Academy, the Alumni, and the Teachers, the boys completed the season with an overall record of four wins, two losses, and one tie.

Basketball

Just getting the feel of their new court, the Basketball squad, led by Captain Philip Tupper, failed to have a winning season. The boys did, however, work hard and well to provide the school with several excellent games.

Coach Robert Mullarkey had something to look forward to next year, for his entire starting team will be playing again.

Girls' Basketball

This year's basketball team did its best to come out on top, but because of the lack of experience in the new team members, the final total of games won was 4, with games lost totaling 10. Captain Ruth Howell and her fellow team members overcame their bitter rival, Tewksbury, in the final game, with a score of 41-35 in favor of Wilmington.

Following the close of the season, Wilmington was represented in the Suburban League All-Stars' Game by Capt. Ruth Howell and Gwen Fisher.

Coach Alice McCarthy looks forward to a more successful season next year.

Softball

Led by Coach Alice McCarthy and Captain Gwen Fisher, the Girls' Softball team has had a very successful season, losing only 3 games and winning 6.

The members of the team are as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Gertrude Cushing | Nancy Bennett | Bonnie Hooper | Betsy Barry |
| Marguerite Orne | Judy Rosselli | Doris Eifler | Sandra Enos |
| Regina Klements | Carol Randell | Ann Sullivan | Pat Shelley |
| Bonnie Forrest | Ruth Sullivan | Carol McKay | Gwen Fisher |
| Janice Spanks | Marion Dawson | Joanne Page | Carol Rice |

Baseball

With the direction of Coach Gilligan and Assistant Coach Keady, the leadership of Captain Don Sharp, and the spirit of the team members, the Wilmington High School Baseball Team has had a very busy season.

To date, the squad has won three games and lost six. Several of the losses were by only one point, and the boys have high hopes of winning the remaining games of the season.

The Varsity team members are:

Don Sharp
Joe Peters
Andy White
Paul Butt
Dick Hoban
Bob Cornish
Dan Burbine
John Brown
Eddie Palino
Dick Graham
John Amaro

Activities

Student Council

Under the direction of Miss Farello and Mr. Bradbury, the Student Council had a prosperous year. The group headed the annual magazine drive again this year and presented a campaign against vandalism.

In March, the members of the Student Council entertained the members of the visiting band with a party.

Student Council membership includes:

President ---------- Samuel Cavallaro
Vice President ---------- Frank Hall
Secretary ---------- Sara Jane Marsh
Treasurer ---------- Joan Hunnefeld

The Alpha Staff

The Alpha Staff, under the direction of Miss Laura Marland, has completed its fourth prosperous year.

For the first time, the paper was produced with the help of the school printing department, making it a "real" paper.

Those responsible for its success are the following:

Faculty Advisor: Miss Marland
Editor: Marie Deegan
Assistant Editors: Phyllis Kimball, Marguerite Orne, Joan Hunnefeld
Business Manager: Philip Tupper
Assistant Business Manager: Peter McMahon
Circulation Manager: Russell Gould
Assistant Circulation Manager: Frank Hall, Robert Cornish
Administration Reporters: Nancy Montgomery, Lynne Mingo
Guidance Reporters: Margery Beddeos, Texann Hancock
Student Council Reporters: Mary Hartnett, Florence Justice, Parker Prindle
Alumni Reporters: Eleanor Kirkell, Judy Blanchard

Officers: Phyllis Ryan, Texann Hancock, Barbara Rugoletti, Sara Marsh

Art Clubs

Officers: Sandra Joseph, Dottie Brisbois, Betty Kirkell, Ernest Moeglin

Glee Club

The Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Lorraine Kalil, had a very productive year. The group was called upon to sing at the Christmas assembly, at a P. T. A. meeting, at the night school open house, at a Sarah Carter lecture, at the Spring Fashion Show of the Home Economics Department, and at both the Junior High School and the High School graduations.

Band

The Wilmington High School Band was reorganized this year, under the direction of Mr. Domenic DeGrazia. The total membership now stands at sixty-seven, each player being outfitted with a new uniform.

With Mr. Joseph Beaton assisting as Drill Master the Band has become a maneuvering group. It's program is now geared for major parades, exhibitions, and competitions, and concert work is soon to be included.

It's activities this year include work in the school Memorial Day programs, the Memorial Day Parade, and the Little League parade. The group is also marching in the Arlington Centennial Parade in June.

Majorettes

The Majorettes, under the leadership of Captain Rita Gatta, have perfected several formations this year. The group has been very busy reheasing and performing. In the Little League and the Memorial Day parades, the girls did an outstanding job, and they plan to march in the Arlington Centennial parade, in June.

Two of the girls, Barbara Lynch and Amanda Brabant, are going to Lowell to compete with majorettes from other schools.

Commercial Club

The newly formed Commercial Club sponsored several worthwhile projects this year including a drive to get and repair second-hand toys to be given to needy families at Chistmas, and typing envelopes for the March of dimes. The group saw a movie on grooming and went on a field trip to the John Hancock building in Boston.

The officers, under the guidance of Miss Mary Welling, are as follows:

President ---------- June Goss
Vice President ---------- Judith Lewis
Secretary ---------- Carmel Gillis
Treasurer ---------- Edythe Carnes
Reporter ---------- Marie Micalizzi

Dramatics Club

The Dramatics Club, under the direction of Miss Margaret Horner, has been very active this year. The group attended a dress-rehearsal of "The Barber of Seville", presented by the Harvard Opera Society.

In the fall, the club presented the play, "A Date with Paul" at a school assembly. The Dramatics Club was in charge of the Christmas Assembly, at which it presented a nativity tableau and the play, "The Fight before Christmas."

Foreign Language Club

The Foreign Language Club was very active this year, including in its program a trip to Boston to see the motion picture. "Seven Wonders of the World." and a trip to the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. The group sent a contribution to CARE in the Spring.

The advisors to the club were Miss Williams and Mrs. Geary.

Future Teachers of America

Late in the year, we at W. H. S. attempted to lay the groundwork necessary for the establishment of a Future Teachers of America Club, affiliated with the State and National Associations.

No formal organization was possible, but we feel that we do have a nucleus for a good club starting in the fall.

All officers this year were in an honrary, rather than elected capacity, since there were nine members and nine offices to be filled.

The advisor to the group was Miss Irene M. Sharp.

Science Club

The activities of the Science Club this year included the showing of scientific films and the demonstration of scientific experiments. On March 11, a Science Fair was held at the school and many Science Club students participated. The president of the club, Roger Luken, won honorable mention for his telescope in the talent search sponsored by the Future Scientists of America Foundation of the National Science Teachers Association.

The club's executive officers are as follows:

President ---------- Roger Luken
Vice President ---------- Robert Hastings
Secretary ---------- Arthur Boudreau
Treasurer ---------- Frank Mulholland
Advisor ---------- Mr. Sullivan

Radio Club

The Radio Club, a new organization at Wilmington High School, has been very active this year. Under the direction of Mr. Pierce, the club's licensed technician, general, and novice operators are helping the unlicensed members prepare to become operators, too.

Plans for a permanent station at the school are being worked out now.

Junior Rotarians

Two Junior Rotarians were chosen each semester to attend weekly meetings of the Wilmington Rotary Club. This program, sponsored by the Rotary Club, helps to prepare high school students for future leadership in their comunity, assuming responsibilities in the spirit of service.

National Honor Society

The Wilmington Chapter of the National Honor Society of Secondary Schools, Number 2186, was formed to create an enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership, and to encourage the development of the character of students in Wilmington High School.

Elected members of this chapter must attain a grade of 85 percent or better and their election is based upon scholarship, service, leadership, and character.

The following were elected to membership:

President ---------- Samuel Cavallaro
Vice President ---------- Parker Prindle
Secretary ---------- Joan Hunnefeld
Treasurer ---------- Marie Micalizzi

Geraldine Hogan
Carol Currier
June Goss
Mary Hartnett
Phyllis Kimball

Harold Murray
Eleanor Kirkell
Freda Shepherd
Patricia Walsh

Russell Gould
Robert Cornish
Florence Justice
Philip Tupper
Harold White

Advisor ---------- Miss Williams

Student Monitors

The student monitors selected from the senior class this year did an excellent job maintaining order in the cafeteria. Although the work was at times exasperating, it was fun, too.

TO LEAD IS TO SERVE

In the early years of our lives, we spend most of our time following others. We follow their instructions, their advice, their examples. They teach us to walk, to speak, and to play. It is from them that we learn to study and to apply what we learn.

Through observing our parents and friends we begin to develop inward traits. We discover the difference between good and evil; we learn to be strong and yet gentle; we become sensitive to the needs and problems of those around us. In proportion as those we follow in our childhood believe them to be important, to be true, to be good, so too do we regard these things, for the effect of the teachings of those we love and follow continues on within us indefinitely. If there be, indeed, any praise upon this earth, it belongs to those who have led us and helped us to grow.

But as we grow older and pass from childhood into adulthood, a time comes when it is not enough that we learn to know good from evil, or that we become strong. These things are to be strived for, but it is not sufficient that we seek to better ourselves only. Before we can advance very far in life, we must turn our thoughts outward; we must let others become our primary concern. When this happens, we observe the problems people face; we see the need for our leadership in many places; we feel a compelling desire to do our share in building the Kingdom of God here on earth.

In working with children, we find one of our greatest opportunities for service as leaders, for they are still seeking to follow. They are learning day by day, but they have not yet discovered many of the things which we know. They need us to help them.

To little children, life itself is learning. Since we are older than they and already know the answers to many of their questions, they look to us to be their guides. Because they are so eager to learn, they will follow us even when we are not aware of their attention. For this reason, we must lead them always, and lead them well.

Because all of us are growing and will continue to do so throughout our lives, we may find opportunities to lead among people of our own age. We can help each other by holding our loving hands to serve as either guides or supports, by giving counsel according to its need, and by opening our hearts to all mankind.

How are we to do all this, we who are yet young ourselves, we who make mistakes every day of our lives? How do we dare to let others follow us, to stand before them as examples? Through faith that we are channels for God's will we dare; through the belief that nothing either begins or ends with ourselves, we can find strength to walk before others, to show them the way. To be sure, we may make mistakes as we lead, even as we have made mistakes in following. The good that we are enabled to do through such leadership, however, will more than counteract whatever wrongs our mistakes may cause.

Leadership is an opportunity for service that we cannot let slip by, for there are many who need us. In all our lives, wherever our paths may lead us, we shall find many such opportunities beckoning to us, challenging us. Can we meet this challenge? Putting on the "whole armor of God" we can, for through Faith we find strength to lead others, through Hope we find a purpose for doing it, and through Charity we find the desire to serve thus our fellows.

A GOAL ACHIEVED — WITH THANKS

A new-born foal has four long, ungainly legs stretched out before him. All four are unsteady, yes, but something definite to work with. Uppermost in this colt's mind is the one goal in life at this point, he somehow realizes that he has to have these four wobbly legs well under him before he can stand by himself, and thus achieve his aim.

We, like this colt, have put four rather unsteady years behind us and have achieved our present goal — that of being part of this graduation as the class of 1957. The credit for our being here tonight goes to our God, our parents, and our teachers.

Ps. 100:3 Most of all, we thank God; for "it is He who has made us and not we ourselves." He alone gave us a brain and the ability to use it to exercise the four attributes — Love, Power, Wisdom, and Justice — with which we were created in God's image. The great Psalmist, David, acknowledged the thanks he owed to God for his very existence and the way he was made. He said;

Gen. 1:26

Ps. 139:14

"I will give thanks unto thee; for I am fearfully and wonderfully made:
Wonderful are thy works;
And that my soul knoweth right well."

Next, let us consider the parents who harbored many fears and visions concerning us, not to mention their high hopes for us. Would we choose the proper friends? Would we pass our subjects in school? Or would we become juvenile delinquents? Probably to the surprise and delight of many, here we are, saying "Hard fight, Ma, but we won!" Perhaps we felt that you were rather severe with us concerning dates, late hours, allowances, and other things in general that required some restrictions, but we realize today that it was for our own good, as it was basic training in obeying rules and regulations. While going through our high school years, we thought ourselves individuals with entirely new, unheard of problems of adolescence; but here we are tonight looking back, as well as ahead, and we realize that these problems were, and still are, a special part of growing up, and that they follow a pattern as definite as time. Thus, it is to our parents that we owe our most sincere and heartfelt thanks.

Then, let us remember the teachers who took the place of our parents while we were in school. Truly remarkable people, when we stop to consider the trouble we caused them while they endeavored to give us something that was free, but which we did not seem to want — a sound education. Most of us are familiar with the term "the breaking point;" we feel that the teachers have reached this point many times because of our thoughtless actions, but due to their patience and understanding, they did not go beyond that breaking point. Those of us who thought the classwork and homework assignments extremely difficult, realize now that they were made so in order to better prepare us to meet the high standards and requirements of our present business world — standards that are requiring further education and experience, often even beyond high school. So many of us, under these capable teachers, have prepared ourselves for college, a further and exhaustive education. Others of us have been trained by competent teachers to meet the exacting demands of the business world where only the "Survival of the Fittest" is known. Those of us not classified by either of the foregoing have been prepared for jobs of various kinds, also having a good background in such things as U. S. History, Civics, and Economics — all that is necessary for a well-rounded individual to live his life as a good citizen of our country, the United States. So to our patient instructors, we owe our sincere thanks.

Thus, we, this class of "57", can stand here, like that colt mentioned a few minutes before, and look ahead, having achieved our first goal by getting our four "legs" or years, well under us. Yes, we are here to say "Goodbye" but in the same breath we can say "Hello" — a bright, confident hello to the future that awaits us.

THE ROAD TO THE NEW WORLD

Tonight is like the end of the old world, and tomorrow, the beginning of the new. We cannot help wondering what lies ahead in this vast world of ours — wondering what the years to come will bring.

Our future depends entirely upon ourselves.

The difference between a man who spends his entire life as an unskilled laborer, and one who eventually achieves the most powerful position in the world today, the Presidency of the United States, may begin, very simply, as a difference in initiative. A man must use whatever initiative he has to shape his own future and success; for the world will judge him, neither by the name he inherited, nor the wealth others accumulated for him, but by the use he made of his own resources.

We have just completed one phase of our striving for achievement — we are graduating from high school. We have been given the training to reach a new, distant goal — success in the field of our choice.

The word success is defined in the dictionary as—"a prosperous determination of any enterprise; prosperity." The emphasis here seems to be largely on financial gain, which alone does not constitute true success. There are other ingredients to be considered before a man can be truly successful: love of his fellow man; achievement; and happiness.

Love for our fellow man should be as much a part of every one of us as getting up in the morning, or eating three meals a day. It should extend to every race, creed, and color. The man who fails to love his neighbor has failed as a human being, and so, can never achieve true success.

The sense of satisfaction and contentment that comes with achievement is neccessary to complete fulfillment. This is a lesson which many of us have already learned. Those of us who haved worked diligently in school, and been rewarded by being admitted to the college of our choice, or getting a job with a preferred firm, realize that hard work not only never killed anyone, but generally pays considerable dividends.

Some of us realize tonight that we have failed to take full advantage of the last twelve years. Let us hope it does not prove to be too costly a lesson; but since any lesson once learned can contribute to the intellectual growth of a person, we shall try to profit by our mistakes, and do better in the future.

The third ingredient neccessary for true success is happiness. A man may be born a naturally gay person, but to attain a true and lasting happiness throughout his lifetime, he must feel that he is making progress in his work, and in his personal life. The feeling of contentment that comes from work well done is unequalled by any other human emotion. The happy man is a joy to be near, and he seldom lacks friends. He has achieved his success as a result of his own efforts, and happiness is his God-given reward.

Here, then, we stand — on the road to the new world, about to begin our search for success — the kind of success that satisfies a man's soul, and makes him glad to be alive. With the help of God, we'll find it.

Class History

PATRICIA WALSH

Graduation marks the end of our class as a unit, and it is only fitting that a history of our years in High School be recorded. I only hope that the incidents I mention will bring to mind many other memories of your own.

Do you remember how we freshmen timidly made our way through the cafeteria, to our home rooms, in September, 1953? The school seemed like a huge maze especially built to confuse us. The upperclassmen teased us as we wandered, lost, through the halls. You'd think they were never freshmen! Surprisingly, we soon became accustomed to life at the high school, and we could even move from class to class without mishap.

Miss Horner and Mr. Barrett, our class advisors, helped organize us at our first class meeting, — and did we need help! After a few more meetings, we elected Tony Marmiani our president, Margie Beddeos vice president, Anne Cavanaugh treasurer, and Ellie Kirkell secretary. Were we surprised when we found we had to pay dues! Quite a few freshmen ran for Student Council, and Bob Costello, June Goss, and Richie Hoban were elected.

Bill Rosa, Doug Anderson, and Sam Cavallaro were on the football team that year. It was quite a year; we won four games and tied two. The Tewksbury game was a scoreless tie.

School was never dull. Mr. Malloy was the subject of much merriment when he came to school wearing one brown and one black shoe, — compounding his folly by wearing rubbers the rest of the day.

After Miss Horner reorganized the Dramatics Club, we had a contest with the other classes to see who had the best skit. The freshman skit was a riot, with Anne Cavanaugh as an old maid aunt,and Tony Appelget as the handsome life guard. Do you remember when Tony dropped Miss Horner on the floor, as they rehearsed this one?

In May, the seniors voted Freda Shepherd and Tony Marmiani the most popular freshmen. We also had a May Day Festival, for which occasion, Ellie Kirkell and Barb Gallison were chosen May Queen attendants.

In June, we all relaxed, and held some fine parties. Do you remember who nearly bumped his head on the top of the door, as he bunny hopped through it in a conga line? Lunchtime, during finals, often became an impromptu party too. So you see, by the end of the year, we were well adjusted socially, as well as academically.

September, 1954, found us striding confidently into school. The place was familiar now, every nook and cranny known to us. Those freshmen looked so lost, — and did we tease them!

In October, we elected our class officers. Tony Marmiani was reelected president, Teddy Nelson was chosen vice president, Margie Beddoes secretary, and Ellie Kirkell treasurer. Edie Carnes, Roz Howell, Anne Cavanaugh and Joan Hunnefeld were on Student Council, with Miss Farello as advisor.

The team won four football games, with the Wilmington-Tewksbury game 7-0 in our favor. Sophomores on the team that year were Bill Rosa, Sam Cavalloro, and Don Sharp.

In the Fall, Freda Shepherd, Anne Cavanaugh, Joyce Corum and I made speeches, based on the Rotary Club, before the student body and the Rotary Club. Freda won first prize of twenty-five dollars.

With the help of Mrs. Murphy and Mr. Dwyer, we held our first dance, the Holly Hop, at Christmas. Tony Appelget's imitation of George Gobel, as the advertisement for the dance, was good enough to arouse comment from that eminent critic, Mr. Driscoll. Bill Rosa's pantomine of "It's in the Book" was the hit of the dance.

In May, the seniors voted Margie Beddoes and Sam Cavallaro the most popular Sophomores, and the girls selected Ellie Kirkell and Margie as attendants for May Day. After two years of orientation, we felt we were considered a real part of the school, at last.

Late in September, 1955, we began our Junfor year, glad that our extended vacation, because of polio, was over. The new half of the school was ready, complete with seventh and eighth graders. Ugh! The task of learning room numbers and teacher's names fell to us again, as the size of the school doubled. Everyone was as lost as the freshmen.

Miss Marshall and Mr. DeLuca helped us get organized. Bill Rosa was elected president, Russ Gould vice president, Margie Beddoes secretary, and Ellie Kirkell treasurer. Sam Cavallaro, Bill Rosa and John Fenlon were Junior representatives to Student Council.

The Foreign Language Club, National Honor Society, Chess and Cue Club, and the Debating Club were formed that year. Monitors were chosen for halls and the cafeteria, with Bob Barboza as the co-ordinator of the first floor. It was also during this year that the custom of Friday dress up was inaugurated by the Junior boys.

Tony Appelget moved to Minnesota that year, and we had a farewell party for him in room 102. There were mostly girls attending, that is, until the football players crashed it.

Because of school's late start, we held one dance, "The Mistletoe Mombo". Entertaining at this dance, were Sam Cavallaro and his Singing Dogs, Billy Rosa in his pantomine act, and Russ Gould.

In May, Margie Beddoes and Sam Cavallaro were voted the most popular Juniors, and Freda Shepherd and Sam were chosen as representatives to Girl's State and Boy's State, respectively.

The Junior-Senior prom was held in our beautiful new gym for the first time. Russ Gould, chairman of the decorating committee, did a wonderful job, producing Springtime in Paris, in the "Place de la Concord". The room within a room, the shining silver stars, and a delicious turkey dinner make this prom the best that Wilmington High School ever had.

Next came the inevitable finals, and at last school was over, and we were seniors, — almost!

In September, 1956, the entire class became afflicted with that well known disease, — senioritis, the chief symptom being a lordly air. After all, we were now at the top of the heap, — the nonchalant old timers. Fortunately, Miss Horner and Mr. Keady knew how to take us down a peg or two.

In October, we reelected all of the officers of the Junior year. On Student Council were Joan Hunnefeld, Sara Jane Marsh, and Sam Cavallaro. Sam was president this year, and Sara Jane secretary. Russ Gould, Bill Rosa, Pop Murray, and Sam Cavallaro were selected as Junior Rotarians.

Co-captains of the football team were Bill Rosa, and Sam Cavallaro, but alas, and alack, we didn't win a single game.

In October we seniors held the Harvest Moon Ball complete with a tattered scarecrow, and some hastily acquired pumpkins.

At the annual town meeting in the new auditorium, Bill Rosa was town moderator, Anne Cavanaugh town clerk, and Bob Barboza chairman of the finance committee. As usual, everyone wanted his own street paved.

At Chrismas time, Mr. Driscoll was recipient of one pair of white bucks, given him by some unknown parties. Do you suppose he will ever run out of excuses for not wearing them?

Work on the year book had already begun when we voted for superlatives in January. I wonder who voted football the best sport?

The National Honor Society brought a band up from Newcastle, Delaware in April. Many Seniors attended the dance which was held to welcome the band members. Henry Chisholm, a former member of our class, was an outstanding member of this band.

The advertisements for the senior dance, "Cupid's Capers", were printed on napkins in the cafeteria. The dance was dress up and we all had a good time.

Our senior play, "Two Many Dates", starred Sam Cavallaro, Carol Currier, Pop Murray, and Anne Cavanaugh. Roz Howell, and Margie Beddoes were terrific comediennes. It was in this play that those never to be forgotten words were spoken: "Gee, you look snazzy in yellow, Carolyn!" To celebrate the success of the play, Miss Horner and Miss Sharp took the cast and crew to the beach at Seabrook, New Hampshire, where many of us went swimming unexpectedly, and under protest.

Blue Hawaii, the Junior-Senior prom was held on Paradise Island. Because of his great success the preceding year, Russ Gould was again chosen chairman of the decorating committee. Flying fish, hula girls and palm trees were everywhere on the island. Tropical flowers bloomed behind the platform on which the king and queen, Russ Gould and Freda Shepherd, stood.

Our class trip, baccalaureate, and the Senior banquet are, at this writing, still in the future, but I know that our class, and our teachers too, will bring to these activities, their usual enthusiasm and sincerity. Tuesday, June 4, will be a very important day in our lives, — Graduation day. If we are proud and confident on that day, it will be because our school, and our teachers have given us so much these past four years. We thank them for the wonderful memories that will always be a part of our lives, wherever we may be.

Class Phrophecy of 1957

JOAN HUNNEFELD

Ten years after the original production of "Around The World In Eighty Days," a contest was being held to advertise and help revive the picture. The winner of the contest would receive a free round-the-world trip, lasting eighty days. In order to be eligible, an entry had to be filed and a composition written containing eighty words telling why the contestant wanted the motion picture revived on the screen. I remembered this picture winning the academy award in my senior year of '57.

The only thing to be changed in the picture was the voice of the commentator. After ten years, the original commentator's voice sounded rather out-moded, so the new and talented radio and TV announcer, ANNE CAVANAUGH, was selected for the job.

Naturally I entered, and surprisingly, I won the contest.

Jumping with excitement, I raced down to the studio to hear more about the planned trip. It sounded fantastic — like a wonderful dream.

A few days later, after stopping off at PAUL MacMULLEN'S drug store to buy a package of gum, I was driven to the airport in HOBAN'S taxi. Dick had started the cab company after graduation from high school — he loved to drive! We arrived at the airport just minutes before the plane was ready to leave. The stewardess, JUDY GRATCYK, came out to help me board the plane. She was smiling, for it reminded her of all the times we had to run for the train together. She introduced me to another old classmate. WARREN HUPPER, the pilot.

The first stop on our flight was London, England. Of course, one of the best sights there is Buckingham Palace, and three of the palace guards turned out to be THOMAS CRAIG, DAVE CALHOUN and JOHN HAMMOND. Well they all looked great in their bright uniforms and tall hats.

I remembered that SARA JANE MARSH was now in business in her native land. I didn't know what type of business, but decided to find out. It was certainly something new and different. She gave lessons on "How to Speak With a Real English Accent," to foreigners who didn't want to feel out of place. She offered to give me a few free lessons, but I didn't have the time. I noticed a few of her pupils were old classmates — BARB HODGDON, PENNY McCABE, MERRILYN WEBB, and KAY CALNAN. I happened to glance up at "Big Ben," the famous clock, and saw someone cleaning its huge face. An advertisement on the staging read — "KELL'S CLEANING SERVICE — from cars to clocks."

Since I wanted to visit France, I took a boat across the English Channel. News reporters on the boat seemed to be interested in something far ahead in the water. I inquired about it, and was told that RUTH HOWELL, an American, was swimming the Channel in record time.

Paris, the center of attraction in France, was the city I visited next. Imagine my surprise to see CAROL CURRIER'S name in lights above one of the famous Paris night clubs. She had become a singer since her acting days at W. H. S. The head waiter, BOB LEONARD, led us to a reserved table, and I noticed sitting close by, leading the applause, were servicemen JERRY MALONEY, PAUL BUDD, PAUL ST. HILAIRE, and DAVID ABERLE. They were really enjoying themselves on leave.

Paris was really an exciting city, so I decided to spend a few more days there. It seems that many of my former classmates had the same idea. ELLIE KIRKELL and MURIEL LORD had become fashion models for a French designer, and they invited me to a showing of all the latest French styles. The name BRENDA CORCORAN was on many of the chic fashions. I couldn't wait to get home and wear some of the new Parisian clothes I bought that day. Also shopping for new wardrobes were GERRE BERGEN, MARGE BEDDOES and JEAN BOUSFIELD, who were vacationing with their husbands. The girls asked me to visit the Eiffel Tower with them. We climbed all the way to the top, and found MARGUERITE ORNE acting as guide and pointing out all the interesting sights of Paris.

I had always wanted to visit the French Riveria, so we rented a little foregn car, manufactured by Monsieur HAROLD MURRAY & CO., to drive along the coast. "Pop" had certainly used his knowledge of cars to good advantage.

The water on the Cote d'Azur looked so inviting that I decided to stop for a while at the beach. Bathing beauties sunning themselves on the sand and swimming in the clear water were LULLIE NELSON, DIANE HUNT, MARIE MICALIZZI, and MARGIE GRASSIA. I also saw DOUGIE ANDERSON spending his summer vacation as a life guard. The girls told me that they had saved up together for this trip. Later, we all got together and drove over to see the famous Monte Carlo Casino in Monaco.

This famed casino was crowded with many foregn tourists, especially some wealthy businessmen from our graduating class of 1957. I was getting used to it now and almost expected to see old friends everywhere I went. I guess luck was with them, because BILL ROSA, BOB BRISBOIS and JOHN SCOZZARO were all showing enough enthusiasm for the game as they lounged against the roulette table.

We could have had a small class reunion in France. It seems this country appealed to everyone.

Next on the sightseeing tour were a few days of mountain climbing and skiing in the Swiss Alps. I was really nervous about climbing, but with CLAUDE PIOTTE and MILTON MORASH as our expert mountain guides, there was nothing to worry about. They were dressed in the same quaint costumes as are pictured on the travel folders. Several other members in the climbing party included RITA GATTA, ANN KRASINSKI, and AVIS GALKA. They were all in Switzerland to compete in a skiing tournament.

We found JANE STEVENS sitting at the top on one of the peaks, waiting for the rest of us.

Later, we left the girls with their practicing and returned to the village. At the village inn, I met PHYLLIS KIMBALL and RUTH GRIFFIN, who were making sketches for magazine covers back home. I also saw FRED FISETTE, who was covering the skiing competitions for the home town newspaper.

From Switzerland, I flew to Germany to visit the famous, old university at Heidelberg. I knew that TEDDY NELSON had won a scholarship to study abroad and had chosen this university. He managed to find some spare time and took me on a sightseeing boat trip down the Rhine River. The captain, incidently, was SAM CAVALLARO, who owned a large fleet of boats on the Rhine. Members of the crew were ROSS COOMBS and BOB LaRIVEE. He pointed out a great castle perched on a sloping hill overlooking the river. It was now occupied by PAT MURRAY, who married a titled nobleman. We decided to go up and visit her. The dungeons, large halls, wine cellars, armor and shields were still there. Houseguests at the castle were CARMEL GILLIS, EDIE CARNES, JUNE GOSS, and MARIE DEEGAN who were vacationing in Europe with their husbands.

The boat trip on the Rhine was so relaxing that I decided to go all the way to Holland, where the Rhine emties into the sea. I really wanted to see the famous dikes there. Since the dikes weren't frozen at this time of the year, I rented a pair of skates at an inside rink and attempted to stand on the ice. Even here, I came across more old classmates — NORMAN CARLSON, RUSS GOULD, and BILL FAULKNER. They were in Europe giving exhibition hockey games to promote the sport.

Later, I went to the airport and flew to Italy. Here, I visited the vast grape vineyards, owned in partnership by wine merchants in the export business — FELIX FORTUNATA and TONY MARMIAMI. In the city I noticed a large poster advertising the sport car races, and underneath, the names of two famous dare-devil drivers — JOHN SCANLON and JOHN SMALLEY. Tourists and fans were already buying tickets, and I noticed a few familiar faces in the crowd. RAYMOND BOUDREAU, RALPH KINNEAR and WALTER SONIER were about the first fans in line. Afterwards, I stayed to watch the start of the race, but had to leave Italy before the winner crossed the finish line.

Spain was the next country on the tour, and I was just in time to attend an afternoon bull fight. The newspapers back home had written a series of articles about the newest and most famous matador, BOB BARBOZA.

His performance in the ring that day was magnificent. Spectators at the bullfight matinee were the senoritas SHIRLEY WILLIAMSON, CECELIA MacLAUGHLIN, and KAY LEAHY. Since they were now living in Spain, the girls had become ardent bullfight fans like the rest of the Spaniards. Later, I recognized JIM FOLLOMAN, BOB PECK and CHARLES BALLU under their sombreros, taking the regular afternoon siesta.

That evening, I received a note at my hotel inviting me to a fiesta at a Spanish hacienda. The note was sent by an old classmate and friend, FREDA SHEPHERD. Somehow, I couldn't imagine this blonde girl as a Spanish senora.

Spending a few days at the hacienda was another old friend, PAT WALSH, a noted lecturer. She was now able to talk all she wanted.

Later, as the boat passed by the Rock of Gibralter on the way to Africa, I remembered hearing that BILL FISKE was in charge of guarding this large stronghold. Helping him out were JOHN BALCOM, HARRIMAN MOE, and JOHN McCORMICK.

I noticed another familiar person, JIM REID, standing on the dock as I came down the gangplank. He was supervising the loading of tons of bananas. I guess the banana scene in our senior play inspired him permanently. Anyway, it was a profitable business.

Later, I boarded the plane and flew to Egypt. After getting settled in a hotel, I went to reserve a seat on the next camel caravan taking tourists to visit the pyramids and the sphinx. Other tourists in the caravan were, EIVOR SKYLBERG, BARB MacKENZIE, SHIRLEY PARK, and JOAN BLANCHARD. They had just returned from a safari in deep Africa, and wanted to see the desert for a while,instead of the jungle.

After my jaunt to the pyramids, I boarded a plane and set out to visit the last country in my travels — Saudi Arabia, and the oil fields.

I had lunch at the modern palace of DON SHARP, an oil tycoon who had struck it rich, and who lived in real luxury. After lunch, he gave me a beautiful Arabian horse as a souvenir of my visit to this country. I was riding it about the desert, and met a few horsewomen now married to wealthy Arabian oil men. MARY HARTNETT, AUDREY KIMBALL, JOYCE CORUM, and VIRGINIA BRYN certainly have enough horses to satisfy themselves now.

Well, I see that the plane is ready to leave, and the stewardess is motioning for me to hurry. As usual, I have to run.

Class Will

ELEANOR KIRKELL

We, the Class of 1957, of Wilmington High School, being of reasonably sound mind and memory, do hereby make and publish this our last will and testament. We bequeath and devise as follows:

To the FACULTY we leave a bottle of tranquilizing pills so that they will be able to teach future classes with more ease. We also leave our gratitude for the many services and favors they have bestowed upon us.

To the JUNIORS we leave our old disease of "senioritis" which we hope will be a very mild case.

To the SOPHOMORES we leave the privilege of reading the inscriptions in our deserted text books, and also advise them not to follow in the footsteps of the Juniors.

To the FRESHMEN we leave the privilege of belittling the new underclassmen with hopes that they are not bigger than you.

DAVID ABERLE leaves a pair of bell-bottomed trousers and a coat of navy blue to one of next year's servicemen.

DOUGLAS ANDERSEN leaves a quick temper to be used as seen fit.

SHIRLEY BACON leaves her ability for asking questions constantly to Dorothy MacDonald.

JOHN BALCOM leaves his own phonograph record of imitations of animals on Zoo Parade.

CHARLES BALLOU leaves the knack for acquiring the money to pay his class dues at the last moment.

ROBERT BARBOZA leaves his curly hair, miniature piano, and candelabra to Robert Kaszynski.

MARGERY BEDDEOS leaves her famous personality and simplicity to those who desire to become popular.

GERALDINE BERGEN leaves her frank opinions to Lorraine Brennick, with hope that she will use them wisely.

JOAN BLANCHARD leaves her tedious struggle at the "Driver Ed." car steering wheel to Mary Ross.

RAYMOND BOUDREAU leaves his work in the cafeteria to the rest of the kitchen brigade, so that they won't seem lax.

JEAN BOUSFIELD leaves her neatness, and wardrobe of clothes to Judy Gould.

ROBERT BRISBOIS leaves his ability to collect props for the senior play to next year's prop manager.

VIRGINIA BRYN leaves her serenity to all the noise-makers in the Junior Class.

PAUL BUDD leaves his money to Phyllis Cutter to play the juke box at the coffee shop.

DAVID CALHOUN leaves his dry sense of humor, plus his old nose, to Bill Finney.

KATHLEEN CALNAN leaves her continuous chatter to Nancy Kelley, who probably won't know what to do with this gift.

NORMAN CARLSON leaves his red hair to someone who's looking for a change of color.

EDYTHE CARNES leaves her giggling at everything, whether funny or not, to Judy Blanchard.

SAMUEL CAVALLARO leaves his unforgettable personality, and private joke book to Frank Hall.

ANNE CAVANAUGH leaves her acting career and "46" Ford to any junior who wants to drive to the theater to catch Anne's next performance.

ROSS COOMBS leaves his athletic abilities and a First-Aid Kit to Jonny Amaro.

BRENDA CORCORAN leaves her unusual way of walking to Sonja Myrsted.

JOYCE CORUM leaves her ability for staying out of trouble to Barbara Morris.

CAROL CURRIER leaves her flirtations and romances to Paula Lienhard.

THOMAS CRAIG leaves a package of cigarettes to Bill Johnston.

MARIE DEEGAN leaves her numerous hair styles, and striped blouse creations to Marilyn Boyle.

WILLIAM FAULKNER leaves his ability to make loud noises in the classroom at unseemly times to Walter Ross.

WILLIAM FISKE leaves a pair of elevated shoes to Thomas McAndrew.

FRED FISETTE leaves a book entitled, "Where To Spend An Enjoyable Day When You Skip School", to Paul Butt.

JAMES FOLLOMON leaves a set of new tires to Bill Fay who has peeled rubber quite often.

AVIS GALKA leaves overdue books from the library to Eddie Sawyer.

RITA GATTA leaves a package of gum and a roll of Life Savers to Janice Spanks, who also likes to chew in time with the typewriters.

CARMEL GILLIS leaves a set of crutches to next year's cheerleading squad.

FELIX FORTUNATA leaves his ability to drive teachers crazy to anyone who wants this gift.

JUNE GOSS leaves to look for an estate to live on with her future husband.

RUSSELL GOULD leaves his loyalty to the class, and, also, an assortment of crepe paper, pins, and wire to the decorating committee chairman of next year's prom.

MARGARET GRASSIA leaves to spend even more time with Chuck.

JUDITH GRATCYK leaves to find true romance working in a New Hampshire Hotel.

RUTH GRIFFIN leaves a long list of days absent from school.

JOHN HAMMOND leaves his suede shoes and pegged pants to Bob Waterhouse, a real "cool cat".

MARY HARTNETT leaves a horse and buggy to the Junior Class, for play posters, so they can advertise the Senior Play in style.

RICHARD HOBAN leaves an empty history workbook for somebody to put the answers in.

BARBARA HODGDON leaves with Bob Leonard.

RUTH HOWELL leaves a book of alibis and a jet plane to Roger White, who finds it hard getting to school on time.

JOAN HUNNEFELD leaves a book on proper etiquette and speech to Joe Gurski.

DIANE HUNT leaves her majorette uniform and baton to someone who would like to try and "dress up" the WHS band.

WARREN HUPPER leaves a space ship to Parker Prindle so he'll be the first human being to reach the moon.

JOHN KELL leaves his secret Monday rendezvous for everyone to guess about.

AUDREY KIMBALL leaves an easel and set of paints to Larry Tucker.

PHYLLIS KIMBALL leaves brains, and the ability to study to Bonnie Justice, who already has these things.

RALPH KINNEAR leaves late, as usual.

ANN KRASINSKI leaves to take a trip around the world in eighty days to find John C.

ROBERT LARIVEE leaves making up book reports 'til the last minute.

KATHLEEN LEAHY leaves a pair of high-heeled shoes to someone who feels down-and-out.

ROBERT LEONARD leaves early to go to work.

MURIEL LORD leaves her figure to the future Miss Wilmington.

BARBARA MacKENZIE leaves with pleasure.

PAUL MacMULLIN leaves at last!

GERALD MALONEY leaves a new supply of test tubes and chemicals to Miss Farello.

ANTHONY MARMIANI leaves a chicken house to all the WHS "chicks" who want a place to hold hen parties.

SARA JANE MARSH leaves her English accent to someone who thinks it will help her in her English classes.

MARGARET McCABE leaves a reward to anyone who finds a lost baby blanket, used in the Senior Play.

CECELIA McLAUGHLIN leaves to complete all gossip sessions with her girl friends.

MARIE MICALIZZI leaves her dependability to Philip Tupper.

HARRYMAN MOE leaves a pick and shovel to another future undertaker.

MILTON MORASH leaves a tank of gas to Larry Foley, in case his gas gauge ever registers empty.

JOHN McCORMICK leaves a record of a baby crying, and a siren, to someone who wants to cause a commotion.

HAROLD MURRAY leaves a shotgun and fishing rod to someone who thinks he'd like to make "sport" in class.

PATRICIA MURRAY leaves an alarm clock to Phyllis Ryan so that she'll be able to get up on time.

ELEANOR NELSON leaves to try her luck at modeling.

HERBERT "TED" NELSON leaves nothing, because he wants everything the others are leaving to help supply his rumpus room for future parties.

MARGUERITE ORNE leaves to join the W.I.T.S. (Women In Teaching Service.)

JAMES REID leaves an odd assortment of parts that might become an engine in the capable hands of Joe Ingemi.

WILLIAM ROSA leaves his bottle of Tintair to someone who wants to experiment with his hair.

BARBARA PECK leaves a pair of stilts to Phyllis Doucette.

ROBERT PECK leaves his job at the A & P, in Woburn, to Joe Barry.

SHIRLEY PARK leaves to make room for the next Park in line.

CLAUDE PIOTTE leaves the key to the book closet to Cliff Knight.

JOHN SCOZZARO leaves a book on "How To Flunk A Course and Enjoy It", to the School library.

FRANCIS SCANLON leaves a padlock on his wallet so that his pocket won't be picked.

EIVOR SKYLBERG leaves her portable radio to the future prom-decorating committee.

DONALD SHARP leaves a baseball bat to Miss Horner, so that she can knock some sense into the heads of next year's senior classmen.

JOHN SMALLEY leaves a haircut to Jerry Christopher.

FREDA SHEPHERD leaves her gift of gab, and wonders how she's going to annoy anyone without it.

WALTER SONIER leaves to try and forget the lines he almost learned in the Senior Play.

JANE STEVENS leaves a forty-pound pumpkin, a cement block, and a "FOR SALE" sign on the front lawn of WHS.

PAUL ST. HILAIRE leaves because he wants to.

PATRICIA WALSH leaves a beach pail and shovel to next year's "Class Baby", so that he will have a good time on the class outing, if a beach is the destination.

MERRILYN WEBB leaves a bottle of perfume to Joan Bennett.

SHIRLEY WILLIAMSON leaves her height to the short boys in WHS.

To the SCHOOL we leave the memories, happy and sad, which we have collected over the last four years; our anxiety and excitement concerning graduation; our genuine affection for the school, and our pledge of loyalty to all WHS future activities.

To this, we set our hand and seal, the 4th day of June, in the year of Our Lord, 1957, in the town of Wilmington, State of Massachusetts.
